

THE DAILY BULLETIN.
WEDNESDAY, EVE JAN. 21, 1885.

The Legislature of Indiana has passed a bill prohibiting Sunday base ball.

W. M. EVARTS has been nominated for United States Senator by the New York Republicans.

On account of the high railroad rates to New Orleans many visitors to the exposition go by river.

The Democrats of Indiana have nominated Hon. Dan Vorhees for United States Senator and the Republicans ex-Governor Porter.

During December 13,622 immigrants arrived in the United States, making a total for the calendar year of 1884 of 453,983, against 560,195 during the previous year.

GEORGE FRASHER, a bar tender, has been arrested at Calcutta for attempting to assassinate Capt. Thomas D. Marcus, editor of the Kentucky Democrat. He was released on $300 bail.

The roller skating craze throughout the United States has reached such an alarming pitch, and the demand so far exceeds the supply, that millions of dollars are now invested in this new enterprise.

THE late Captain J. N. Williamson was at one time Captain and owner of the W. P. Thompson, Mattie Roberta, the three Emma Grahams, Hounds, Pittsburg, Chesapeake, Hibernia and was part owner of several other boats.

The rumors in regard to serious difficulty in the New Orleans Exposition are said to be without foundation. All the money needed to make it a success, it is announced from New Orleans, will be raised without difficulty. The attendance is growing larger daily.

The following is from the Richmond (Va.) State: "Just before the war, while Mr. E. Richardson was proprietor of the wharfboat at Vicksburg, he was aroused from sleep one night by Captain Spots, of the steamer Eclipse. The Captain introduced him to Major W. T. Sherman, now General Sherman, who was in command of the 'regulars' being transported from the Baton Rouge Arsenal to the northern side of the line. Major Sherman said: 'Mr. Richeson, I had you wakened up to ask if you would be kind enough to take charge of the corps of one of my men and have the body decently interred.'

Mr. Richeson told him he would. He then asked the Major what he thought of the situation. "Do you think there will be war, Major?"

Major Sherman said: "Mr. Richeson, I am afraid there will be trouble," and then he added (in substance), "I have spent many years in the South, where I have received only the kindest treatment, and before I would fight against those people I would lose my right arm."

"Mr. Richeson says he wonders, now that General Sherman is publishing some of his Southern notes, if he has forgotten the interview of that night."

The New York World, in referring to the above statement, says: "If there is any further evidence in the support of this statement the United States Senate should be empowered to send for papers and persons, including Richeson and Sherman. As a mere matter of personal history it would be interesting to know how Major Sherman came to change his mind, and instead of losing his right arm, to save both arms, both legs and quite a comfortable fortune. While the Senate is engaged in washing the dirty linen of a quarter of a century ago Sherman's might as well be brought into the national laundry, and for any additional expense that may be incurred Sherman's brother John is abundantly able to furnish the 'soap.'"

The Northwest.

[Danville Advocate.]

The preparations for the cold weather in the Northwest are a surprise to visitors. Our country captain, who for everybody in the house has duplicates of windows, with a few inches of air between; the stoves are of enormous size, often reaching nearly to the ceiling, and such a diversion as sleighing is scarcely known, as nobody thinks of spending time out of doors for fun in winter.

Bob Ingersoll's Big Fee.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

While ex-Senator Dorsey was here in state at the time of the trial of Ingersoll, he was asked one day how much he paid Bob Ingersoll for his defense in the star route trials. "Well," said he, "it was very curious how that was done. From the beginning to the end of the trial Ingersoll never asked me a dollar." The day after I had been acquitted on the second trial, I met Ingersoll and I asked him how much I owed him. He at first declined to talk about it, saying he had no charge to make and I didn't care if he did. So I asked him to. He walked a few squares with me, and we went to a safe deposit building. I unlocked my box, and took out a four per cent Government bond for $100,000 and gave it to him. He put it in his pocket and walked away, and have not referred to the subject since.

PASSED TO HIS REWARD.

Death of Hon. Flamen Ball, the Old Law Partner of Salmon P. Chase.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—Hon. Flamen Ball, an attorney of law, died yesterday morning at his residence in the old town of Cincinnati. The members of the bar, the old citizens of the state and the public in general will be pained to hear of his death. He was the law partner of Salmon P. Chase, late chief justice of the United States, and was himself one of the prominent lawyers of Ohio and distinguished men of the country.

Hon. Flamen Ball was born in New York city, January 5, 1829, and was the only son of Flamen Ball, an eminent lawyer of that place. His father died when he was a boy of 14, and in 1845, was one of the founders and proprietors of the colony of New Haven. In 1832 Mr. Ball removed to Cincinnati with his wife Evelina, youngest daughter of Capt. Samuel Collier.

In 1846, having adopted his father's profession, he formed a law partnership with the Hon. Salmon P. Chase, who ultimately became chief justice of the United States. This partnership continued for over twenty years, during which time Mr. Ball built up a high professional reputation as attorney of profound ability, and the sterling qualities that go to make the typical man.

On the arrival of Abraham Lincoln to practice before the court, Mr. Chase was appointed district attorney for the southern district of Ohio. On the passage of the bankruptcy law in 1867, Mr. Chase, the chief justice, appointed Mr. Ball registrar in bankruptcy, which office he continued to hold until the close of his life.

He was a forcible and eloquent advocate, careful and attentive to the management of the causes intrusted to him. He was greatly esteemed for his skill as well as for the courtesy with which he always gave to works of a public character. In 1864 he lost his first wife, and in 1873 he was again married to Elizabeth H. Parryles, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is only four years ago that the deceased Judge Ball voluntarily retired from the practice of the law about six months ago, and a old baird uttered words with the words, "P. Chase and F. Ball, Attorneys at Law," still stands in the doorway at No. 8 East Third street, and is the only name that remains of the once famous partnership.

THE EXPOSITION TROUBLES.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's Complaint to the United States Commissioners.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—The United States Commissioners of the exposition held a meeting yesterday to consider the complaint of Mrs. Ward Howe, chief of the department for women's work, presented a long communication the substance of which was that of the sum of $60,000 appropriated for her department was "lost" as well as $10,000 more than $5,000 from the management of the cause intrusted to her, and in consequence she had been forced to curtail her original designs for the exhibit, and had been driven to the necessity of paying her expenses out of her pocket, and had been compelled to leave her and her assistants. Her ladyship was threatening to distract her goods and chattels for board bills. Mrs. Howe asked the commissioners to interfere in her behalf. They once addressed a similar complaint to the commissioners, and demanded an accounting of Mrs. Howe's appropriation.

It is believed the management is in no position to meet the demand, and that if the commissioners are unsatisfactory to the cause, to congress the responsibility of the exposition into the hands of a receiver or agent for the government. The threatened strike of the exposition workers which was to have occurred Monday was averted by the payment of ten per cent, on account of back wages and a promise of further payment within a few days.

Buffalo's Unbalanced Books.

BUFFALO, Jan. 21.—Mayor Seaville has sent to the board of aldermen a report of the financial condition of the auditor and treasurer's departments. He said the books of the departments had never been balanced since 1874. The variances varied from $1,000 to $10,000, and the auditor's declaration is that it is the result of the first attempt to make a trial balance of the books in the treasury department. The comptroller and treasurer have adopted a system of keeping the books so that they will hereafter be kept in perfect accord.

The Kan Wilf Recover.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Capt. Phelan, who was stabbed at 12 o'clock last night, is doing well by Richard Short, and is able to sit up in bed in the Chambers street hospital, and got shaved by a barber. To the president of the hospital society he said he was feeling fine, rate, and believed he was surprising the doctors.

All Danger Past at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—The danger of food is past. The water in both rivers is falling, navigation on the Allegheny river can no longer be resumed because it is ice-bound. The channel is also full of ice, and the thermometer is hugging the zero line. The railroads which have been great sufferers by the washouts, are now in full operation.

All persons who wish to go upon this excursion should apply immediately to Mr. White.

"The Accident due to Carelessness." So said the Coroner's jury, and consigned the switch tender who was said to have carelessly left the switch open. Examination showed that the poor fellow was nervous from overwork, and that his constitution was badly run down by under-feeding, the result of poor pay. What he needed was a little Brown's Iron Bitters, which would have toned up his nerves and strengthened him in mind and body. Mr. Thomas Jones, Newark, Ohio, takes pleasure in saying, "Brown's Iron Bitters completely cured me of weakness, debility and poor appetite. It gave entire satisfaction."

The following is from the Cincinnati Hotel Journal; Col. Gus Simmons, the most popular man that ever run up and down the Ohio River, and proprietor of the bars on the steamboats Big Sandy, Boston, Fleetwood and May Houston, has purchased the bar of the Dennison Hotel, and will take control of the same on Monday next. Mr. Simmons is an old river man, and held the position of steward on the old Fleetwood for thirteen years, and is one of the finest and most clever gentlemen, and has more friends than any other man on the river. He lives in Aberdeen, O., opposite Maysville, Ky. Col. Simmons owns the mineral springs from which the celebrated "Simmons Medicinal Water," for the cure of kidney diseases is shipped to all parts of the country. The Dennison bar will be in charge of Mr. Simmons, brother James, who, it is said, is very popular with the boys. Besides the bars already named, Col. Simmons owns several others, and his connection with the Dennisons will doubtless swell the list of arrivals at this popular d' hotel.

On examination, the icy meteor was found to be of a perfect star shape, with six points, and about one and a half inches in diameter. ### What a Pity!

(Elizabethtown News)

Some time ago, while in Blackburn making a speech, Rosalie McLean, a friend, whispered to her: "What a great pity that man is not a preacher of the gospel!"

Taken at His Word.

(From the Chicago Tribune)

A charming young girl, accompanied by her octogenarian great-grandmother, who is all that the name implies, enters a Paris dry goods store.

"How much is this ribbon?" she asks of the polite young clerk, who has bounded agilely over stools to wait upon her.

"Give me ten yards then," replies the young master gallantly.

"Give me ten yards then, Grandma! when you—she always settles the bills when we go shopping."

(Found at Random in the Fashion Columns.)

A moss-green velvet bonnet has a brim of sealskin and trimmed with loops and ends of narrow ribbon and velvet to match.

Hankies are no longer displayed peeping from the pocket or hanging from the fan handle, belt or bosom.

Black lace flourishes, with gold embroidery, are worn with gold ornaments on black costumes.

Yellow is coming into fashion again as "a jewel and body" color for private carriages.

Muffs and bonnets must match.

An aid-to-camp to the Duke of Wellington had, at the peace preceding the escape of Napoleon from Elba, gone to Torquay for the benefit of health.

On hearing of the proposed Congress of Paris, he returned to Paris, the Captain sent for his medical attendant, and asked him how long, with care, he might hope to live.

"With care several months," replied the doctor. "But you are not a young man, sir, nor invalid," then I fear we die in bed as in my bed?" He joined his regiment, fought gallantly at Waterloo, received a wound that took away all the diseased part of his lungs, and lived many years longer.

Queen Victoria is but sixty-six years old; she is a rosy bright young lady, and her chances of living twenty years longer are, by all accounts, not nearly as good as those of Albert Edward himself.

When the Prince of Wales, supposing him to survive his royal master, is said to have been a good grandfather, he will very probably be a grandfather, and before Albert dies, he will have outlived his son.

There is a story that Victor II, England's King, will certainly have grown quite old, and doubtless much more Democratic. Perhaps there will be no throne in England for him to ascend for.

"Did you ever see such a meteor?" exclaimed Boddy, putting her finger into the goldfish globe: "the water's cold as a stone! Oh wonder if missus expects we'll ever cool? Faith, I'll fit it from the tyke-tell meill!" [Detroit Post.

AMERICANS SHUT OUT.

ACTION IN EUROPE AGAINST UNITED STATES PRODUCTS.

A Coalition Proposed to Close the European Market to American Agricultural Products—A Bait for the Old World's Peasantry—

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—In the agitation now being carried on among the agrarian party of Austria-Hungary the final end and object of the movement that has gained such headway on the continent has been to bring the agriculture of the world to a standstill, and nothing less than the absolute shutting out of American breadstuffs from Europe, or at least from Germany, Austria and Russia. The protective duty which Germany has imposed upon its agriculture is the first step, and it is determined to introduce it suffices no longer. The land owners want to be freed from all competition and unhampered by the laws governing the markets of the world, to regulate the price of grain to suit themselves. This is to bring about the salvation of agricultural interests. It is not surprising that here such pretensions should arise, for the population is completely cut off by reactionaries and by the fascists, who are misleading programmes of the socialists, the anti-socialists, and the older medieval spirit of the guilds of yesteryear. And the government itself, consisting of a conservative aristocratic party, has adopted a programme of closing the market to the present—relief from its present burdens and incommodities by the state and the shutting off of American competition. Everything is possible in a land where the lack of capital is the cause of the present crisis. The result of this is a campaign directed against mobile capital; in a state where the industries have so sunked; in a state where the great manufacturing industries are opposed in order to favor the petty crafts; in a state where the people are so poor that it makes itself feel every week, in which the highest aristocracy mingles and communes with the Anarchist leaders—there everything is possible. For this reason I signalize the main point of the newest agitation, which originated in the circles that now govern Austria-Hungary:

"It is announced," says the Weimer Tagblatt, "that a very strange idea has suddenly sprung up in the minds of the Austrian people, and is characteristic of the present time. The proposition is made in all seriousness that in order to meet the question of American competition we shall take refuge in an European war, which will bring us into conflict with America, and, after, close the European market to American agricultural products. In support of this proposition it is remarked that America rejoices in extraordinary advantages: immense tracts of ground which are not yet exhausted, and which are ready for the use of agriculture. America has no standing army. The state takes away no labor from the land and the ground. America is not burdened with heavy taxation, for she derives her income principally from her tariff. To be taken into consideration also is the activity of the American spirit, the agility of American enterprise, and the character of transportation, which is also peculiar to Americans. The state is thoroughly alive to furthering the promotion of agricultural products. The American farmer is not oppressed by those burdens which European centralization has imposed upon the farmers of European countries. We cannot overestimate the American competition in any other way than by closing the European market to Americans."

UP THE SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY.

Making a Railroad in a Great Wheat Region of the North.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Messrs. R. Gill T. H. Brydges, W. F. Bircham, and Thomas Howard, officials of the Manitoba and Northwestern railway, say their road is completed to a point 130 miles northwest of Winnipeg, in the Saskatchewan valley. The railway was originally started with English and Scotch immigrants, and its population would be doubled next year. It had been found that Highland cattle could take care of them selves during the winter, and the result is a large cattle business, while in the era of the prairie region, wheat raising is the other industry of the valley, which extended for hundreds of miles to the northwest into a little known part of the continent. The road will be built to the Rockies as rapidly as the money will permit, and the valley will be the finest region in the northwest territory. The road is not much troubled with snow, as the snowfall is much lighter than further south, owing to the Pacific climate.

A Father's Accidental Shot.

SALT LAKE, U. T., Jan. 21.—George Birch and his brother Robert had a match shooting at a mark in Bennington, Bear Lake county, Idaho, in which George was beaten. As he was leaving the field a little boy said "I'll get well under Uncle Robert next time." The father put in a cartridge, and drawing the lever back the gun went off, the ball passing through the little girl's head, killing her instantly.
